

Dear Year Six,

I hope this week finds you all well? Hasn't the weather been beautiful? We've been trying to get out into the garden this week, I've been encouraging the boys to tackle a bit of gardening but they don't seem very keen.

This week the most exciting thing to have happened to me was being attacked by a frog – well that's how I remember it! The story goes... I was cleaning the boy's playroom and I opened the window to let in some fresh air, somehow I managed to disturb the family of frogs which live outside the window. The playroom is in the cellar, the frogs jumped – I jumped, banged my head on the window and started to scream. Mr Tobin thought I had been attacked by a boa constrictor. It's not that I dislike frogs just not keen on them jumping at me. Maybe saying they attacked me was a bit of an exaggeration!

I'm sure a few of you are feeling just as jumpy as I am at the moment with all the news in the press about schools returning. I know a few of you will be returning as your parents are key workers but for the majority of us we will be continuing to work, learn and play at home. All of the teachers are working hard to ensure that those of you that do return are kept as safe and happy as possible and that the rest of you still have lots of activities and learning to try at home.

Remember you can email me or Mr Warrener with any work you have done, or if you need help with any of the activities we have suggested.

I hope you have all had a chance to take a look at the video the teachers put together for you, it was lots of fun to make even if there were a few 'mis-happenings' such as Mrs Perons nearly breaking her nose when Mr Warrener threw the giant tiger at her – Mrs Sykes wanted to put Mr Warrener on the corridor for not being careful enough! I had to have four attempts at catching the tiger because I kept laughing and forgetting to throw it on. But it was worth it and I think the final video was a lovely way to see some faces which you might be missing.

Still missing you all, keep safe and happy

Mrs Tobin and Mr Warrener